ONE DAY RESEARCH METHODOLOGY WORKSHOP

A one day research methodology workshop was conducted for the final semester post graduate students on 22 January, 2024. The resource person was Ms. Priya Prabhakaran, Junior Research Fellow, Vimala College (Autonomous), Thrissur. The workshop provided insights about research methodology in literary studies, as literary research methods tend to differ from research methods in sciences. Literary research often deals with questions of meaning, representations of lived experience, aesthetic effects, and socio-cultural analysis; these are questions that reward dialogue and different perspectives rather than one great experiment that settles the issue. In literary research, we might get many valuable answers even though they are quite different from one another. The workshop focussed on various aspects of academic writing namely, review of literature, analysing the collected data, the critical thinking aspects of literary research, and the documentation of the dissertation. The workshop helped the students to develop their own perspectives on literary research.
